I learned today that the EPA's official suggestion for cleaning up the Willamate River Superfund site is going to only clean up 8% of the contamination. Really?!?! People swim in that river- we eat fish from that River. I wouldn't clean only 8% of the kitchen, or 8% of the bathroom.

I would understand if whomever did the polluting cleaned up the other 92%, but I also saw that is not the case. Please reconsider the abysmally low 8%, and aim for a more reasonable, higher number.
